

DARKENING VOICE AND THE ECHOING LIGHT

WHEN DARKNESS SURROUND YOU LOOK FOR THE LIGHT AROUND YOU

SUKANYA BHATTACHARYA

to all those who have a broken part let me be your sellotape, let me be the magic that heals you

Buy this book from Amazon, flipkart or notion shop.

It is currently at its lowest price

Sample poem from the book

Only one is given

Check it out

Buy if you like the book

And kindly give reviews in Amazon to promote it.

Disclaimer * this poem deal with concept such as drug, suicide and self harm. Read with caution ⚠

WINNER

In the quite of the night
I saw you fight
Not with someone else
But within yourself

You were fighting
For the brother you couldn't be
For the friend you weren't anymore
For the son your mom lost
For the father your daughter despises
Yet those silent pleas remains unheard

*You needed help
And so you yelped
You got rage
While You needed to be held
So you fell for the temptation of death
And drug dragged you in the pit of hell*

*Your misery increased Slowly creeping in
And just before the dawn
You were gone*

*Your body remained
At the edge of the horizon
Hanging with a single thread
Of life and death*

*Why choose the darkness people asked?
In the quite of the night You cried
And they never heard
Where was the choice to begin ?*

You never had light to live in

*But then you got what you needed
A single touch brushing your head
Telling you were the best
Even though you were sinking with hate*

*You left the darkness behind
As you got the glimpses of the light
And when I look at your rumble
I see a man who won the battle*

*In the quiet of the night
I see what is right
Your past was in the past
Now you are the best
And the touch helped you rest*

Sukanya